A staircase leads up to the upper level where you will find the Master Bedroom off to the right with an en-suite bathroom and a large built-in closet. At the other end of the house is a mirror image of this room and where the second, large double bedroom is. Both bedrooms have French doors leading out to the wide, covered balcony and fabulous views out across Lake Atitlan and to the volcanoes on the Southside through the treetops. A third, slightly smaller, bedroom lies between these two doubles. There is a second bathroom with a bathtub that is shared between the second and third bedrooms. Outside the kitchen is a laundry area and a solar system. The house has a bio-digester system and is connected to the national electricity grid (DEOCSA).
